LFPAIE: Large Firm Principal Administrators Idea Exchange
Sunday, April 2  12:30 PM - 4:30 PM

NOTE: For purposes of participating in this Idea Exchange, a principal administrator is defined to mean the firm's chief non-lawyer operating officer or administrator, generally carrying the title of Executive Director, Director of Administration, Chief Operating Officer and similar designations. The term does not include branch office managers, regardless of title or department/functional specialist lead staff. There can be only one person in a law firm who qualifies as its principal administrator.

This unique idea exchange is open to the principal administrator in a law firm having, in all locations combined, 100 or more attorneys. Come with questions, concerns and solutions to discuss with your peers who are also managing large firms. You select the topics, which may include business planning, developing talent, lateral partner hiring and evaluating client profitability.
IPIE: Intellectual Property Idea Exchange
Sunday, April 2  1:00 PM - 2:15 PM

Join your fellow Intellectual Property (IP) administrators to discuss the unique issues to the IP administrator. Both new and experienced IP administrators are welcome to participate in this informal setting where you will share information, ideas and best practices. Participants are encouraged to bring topics of interest, questions and other issues to discuss.

CM12: Leadership Is Not a Glass Slipper ... But You Still Have to Make Sure It Fits!

Monica Wofford

Monday, April 3  11:00 AM - Noon

Any person or personality can be a leader. But is it a fit for you? The same style of leadership, is not a fit for every candidate and many would even say the glamour of being a leader is not all it's cracked up to be. Leadership is Not a Glass Slipper™ is the session in which you'll easily see which style works for those you lead and the skills needed to lead even more effectively. Complete with 10 steps for individualized leadership development, this session helps you find your strengths and guides you to determine the right people who are the best fit for your team, practice and even among the attorneys who influence your office environment. Whether your leadership skills could improve in the area of communication, delegation, motivation, recognition or engagement of those you lead, this session clarifies which type of leadership "shoe" fits and whether you're the right person for it!

Objectives:
• Identify key leadership actions that elevate effectiveness in communication and engagement.
• Apply identification tactics to vacancies, gaps and missing skills in your office.
• Determine, based on one's preference, whether being a leader is a role that truly and comfortably fits.

FM10: How to Price for Profitable Legal Services and Build Client Relationships

Keith Lipman
Pricing is the infrastructure of profitability and needs to be understood and accessible on the firm, practice, client, matter and attorney level. It's also the bedrock of building successful client relationships. With the pricing role at law firms evolving and maturing, the need for new, holistic technologies to support these roles is growing as well. In today's atmosphere, it's essential to have a core platform that connects law firm leadership and attorneys with their business development, pricing, finance and human resources teams — allowing the firm to work in a more integrated manner.

Objectives:
• Develop a deeper understanding of how pricing drives profitability and client relationships.
• Analyze how legacy technologies and new tech solutions enable firms to pursue ideal pricing strategies.
• Identify strategies for a comprehensive, holistic approach to complex pricing and legal project management challenges.

Audience: This session assumes that participants have a working knowledge of Legal Services Pricing.

OM11: Office 365 and the Cloud: What You Need to Know About Ethics and Security

James Gast  David Myers

Monday, April 3 11:00 AM - Noon

Law technology is moving to the cloud at an incredible rate. Cloud and Office 365 adoption rates will continue to increase as the cost benefit is increasingly recognized. However, for law firms and their ownership, there are serious ethical, security and confidentiality considerations that need to be made prior to the leap into the cloud. Due diligence is a gray area for each firm and each state. We will explore the benefits of Office 365 and the cloud, and provide some tools to help legal management professionals evaluate if their firm should consider various cloud services.
Objectives:
• Evaluate various cloud services appropriate for law firms.
• Discuss and consider cloud ethical, security and confidentiality.
• Identify how to avoid common pitfalls when moving to the cloud.
• Review self-readiness tools and worksheets.

HR10: Connecting Business Goals to HR Metrics

Mark Robilliard

Monday, April 3  11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

Return on investment (ROI) is the classic business metric, but how does that relate to HR? We'll start with a surprising idea — the only two things happening in a law firm: value is being created and value is being destroyed. By first building a simple, but powerful model of how all business works, we'll engage in conversations about the business of law. With the fundamentals in place, we'll explore a range of useful metrics for HR practitioners. While we'll use an innovative system called Color Accounting to shine light on the numbers, it's as much a focus on using words that make the subject matter come to life and the session engaging for all types of learner.

Objectives:
• Breakdown financial statements in a way that makes them meaningful.
• Examine how your business generates and consumes value.
• Discuss HR specific metrics and link them to business goals.
• Identify financial-communication pitfalls.

HR11: Maximizing Your Firm’s Success in Lateral Hiring

Alan R. Olson

Monday, April 3  11:00 AM - 12:30 PM
In today's legal market, the vast majority of law firms engage in lateral hiring of lawyers. Success varies across-the-board in terms of successful recruiting processes and, more importantly, in the success of laterals once hired. This session, directed at law firm and practice area leaders and managers, will provide strategies and tools to help your firm maximize its success in lateral recruitment and hiring. The presentation will include a strategic overview, guidelines on financial, performance and cultural issues, and pitfalls to avoid.

Objectives:
• Discuss strategizing and profiling the best candidates to meet your firm's needs.
• Identify which candidates are most likely to fit — and not fit — your firm's culture.
• Examine financial, performance and profitability parameters, and structures to implement.
• Discover ways to enabling new hires to hit the ground running, and shorten the firm's period for return on investment

LI11: Burying the Billable Hour: Implementing Value Pricing in Your Firm

Ron Baker

Monday, April 3 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM

Understanding how people make buying decisions is a key component to any successful pricing strategy. By grasping the concepts of how clients are influenced, you can be better equipped to price successfully and increase your profitability. This session will provide a look at behavioral economics, marketing strategy and customer psychology, as well as how these principles should be applied to pricing. This session will confront the conventional wisdom embodied in the old law firm business model, which states the way to success is by leveraging people and hours, or "we" sell time.

Objectives:
* Recognize the first and second law of pricing and how they influence your pricing decisions.
* Discover how the anchoring and framing effects influence pricing.
* Analyze what and how people buy.
* Discuss the importance of price psychology and emotions.
* Identify why your firm should offer pricing options, rather than one price.

Audience: This session assumes that participants have a working knowledge of pricing in the legal industry.

FM11: Administering Your Firm’s Retirement Plan in a Changing Environment

Virginia Brennan

Monday, April 3  1:45 PM - 2:45 PM

New fiduciary rules brought about by the U.S. Department of Labor are expected to result in significant changes in the way retirement plans and related investment advisory services are delivered to individuals. Starting in 2017, these changes may impact the way plan sponsors interact with advisory firms and consultants. Legal management professionals should be aware of these changes and know how they may impact the way retirement plans are administered.

Objectives:
• Review the basics of the new rules being introduced by the U.S. Department of Labor.
• Identify how these rules may impact the way your firm's retirement plan is administered.
• Determine key best practices on how to administer your firm's retirement plan.

Jennifer Buhler

Monday, April 3  1:45 PM - 2:45 PM

In this program, attendees will learn why every legal management professional, regardless of the size of the firm, must understand the ramifications of conflicts of interest. The program will include an overview of how conflicts of interest are created, why you must search for conflicts for every new matter and lateral hire (lawyers and non-lawyers), and how you can make your conflicts system work for your firm. The presentation will also include examples of what can happen if firms fail to spot a conflict of interest.

Objectives:
• Discuss how conflicts of interest are created under Rule 1.7, 1.8 and 1.9.
• Explain why it is important to search for conflicts of interest for all lateral hires, including staff.
• Summarize solutions for how to better structure your database to find and solve conflicts of interest.

LI12: Generational Marketing: Strategies and Tactics for Engaging Different Generations

Jonathan Fitzgarrald  Heather Morse

Monday, April 3  1:45 PM - 3:00 PM

The business landscape is now composed of four distinct generations of purchasers and providers of legal services. Successful legal professionals understand each generation has its own distinct preferences, incentives, skill sets and ways they receive and process information. This interactive program will provide insights into the four generations, and how law firms can construct and tailor messages both internal and external so messages are heard by target audiences. Additionally, the discussion will explore the coming tide of Gen X leaders, who are characterized by their independence, individualism, resilience, self-reliance, adaptability and an entrepreneurial spirit. The program also dives into how law firms can better attract and retain Millennial attorneys.

Objectives:
• Discover how the generations can come together in a collaborative setting to best work together.
• Describe the different motivations of each generation, and what law firm leaders can do to overcome many of the current hurdles to collaboration.
• Review up-to-date information on the current status of the generational divide.

HR12: Replacing the Annual Performance Appraisal Ritual

Ron Baker

Most organizations and employees are dissatisfied with the performance appraisal process, so it remains a curiosity why this methodology continues to exist. Performance appraisals don't drive careers; they are an incidental effect of other dynamic systems. In essence, appraisals are the paper-shuffling ritual that sanctifies decisions already made. A few professional firms have replaced this annual process, including Deloitte and Accenture.
Objectives:
• Relate why it's a legal myth that performance appraisals protect you from litigation, or in court.
• Analyze why appraisals instinctively focus on weaknesses, not strengths.
• Outline why once a year is too long to evaluate and provide feedback to knowledge workers.

FM12: Do You Know What Your 401(k) Is Costing You and Your Firm?

Virginia Brennan

Monday, April 3 4:00 PM - 5:00 PM

Do you know how fees affect your firm's 401(k)? As the administrator of your plan, you should have a good understanding of the costs associated with your retirement plan, which can include costs to your firm as well as costs to your individual employees. There are several types of fees a retirement plan provider can use to collect revenue. All of these fees can quickly add up to thousands of dollars, which can erode the profits of your law firm and negatively impact an employee's retirement savings. In this presentation, we will discuss why fees are important and review the types of fees that are often included in retirement plans. We will also talk about the role of the fiduciary and making appropriate decisions with fee information as part of that responsibility.

Objectives:
- Identify various fees and how they are applied to plans and participants.
- Outline how to make value judgments based on the relationship between fees and services.
- Discover how expense ratios directly impact savings.

LI15: Leading with Strategy
Strategic planning is an essential tool law firms and legal departments must have as a competitive road map to the future. Yet, there are generally three camps when it comes to the strategic planning: 1) Those who develop thoughtful, focused goals and execute and measure results; 2) Those who develop a plan because they think they should, yet fail to execute the plan in a systematic way with desired results; and 3) Those who simply hope for the best. So why is strategic planning such a chore for so many, with such mixed results? What role does leadership in your organization play in strategic thinking, strategic management and strategic change? How does a leader driven approach impact the development, execution, measurement and success of a strategic focus? This session will provide insights into the leaders' role in strategy and change.

Objectives:
- Identify components of strategic leadership and planning.
- Define the components of a strategic plan and the relevance of each.
- Formulate the role leaders' play in the strategic thinking and management process, and characteristics key to their success.
- Discuss the role change management plays in execution of a strategic plan.
- Examine steps for accountability and success of the plan.

CM15: Make Difficult People Disappear: How to Eliminate Conflict and Reduce Stress in the Workplace

Monica Wofford

Monday, April 3  4:00 PM - 5:30 PM

We all have them, but no one wants to deal with them. But what you really want to know is how to Make Difficult People Disappear™ ... without going to jail! In this high-energy session, attendees complete a personality quiz and apply their emotional intelligence to difficult bosses, employees and even family members. Appropriate for audiences of all positions, the lessons from this topic foster collaboration among office managers and the teams they lead — as well as the attorneys and administrators who lead them — while eliminating daily stress and conflict that can come from clients and others.

Objectives:
• Develop and retain a unique awareness of the four personalities you work with, report to, collaborate with, and sometimes struggle working with.
• Practice immediately applicable methods for improving your daily communication and prevention of conflict among colleagues.
• Evaluate your role in a difficult relationship and find the humor in how we unknowingly help others be difficult or see us as difficult.
• Identify three scenarios in which the course skills can be applied and practice their solutions in session.

Audience: Attendees of all levels will benefit from this session. No advance preparation is required.

CM16: Law is a Buyer’s Market: Transforming Law Firms to Respond to a New Competitive Environment

Jordon Furlong

Monday, April 3  4:00 PM - 5:30 PM

Law firms have experienced a wrenching decade of upheaval. Economic crisis, technology revolutions and an army of innovative competitors have created a new marketplace for legal services. Empowered clients are sending less work to law firms and dictating new terms of their relationships with outside counsel, turning law into a buyer’s market. Law firms need effective solutions to these existential challenges, and fast. This session will outline those solutions and recommend practical routes by which law firms can achieve them.

Objectives:
• Describe the underlying causes of legal market transformation and the new competitive landscape for legal services.
• Identify the key features of a buyer-focused law firm that can thrive in this new environment.
• Explain essential leadership and change management techniques that law firms will require to undertake this transformative process. Audience Level: Intermediate Audience: This session assumes that participants have 7-10 years of change management and client service experience in the legal industry.

HR14: Building Effective Mentoring Programs

Rik Nemanick

Monday, April 3  4:00 PM - 5:30 PM

One of the best ways to help develop and retain your valued employees is by having them work with a skilled mentor. Many firms have created programs to facilitate the creation of mentoring partnerships, but the programs have not always delivered the desired results, leading to frustration of both mentees and mentors. However, mentoring programs can deliver great results if they are designed well from the start. This session will examine current research on mentoring programs and will detail how firms can get the most out of them.

Objectives:
• Describe how firms can benefit from facilitated mentoring programs.
• Identify what structure to create for an effective program.
• Explain what should be covered in mentor and protégé training.
• Summarize how to evaluate the program for success.

Audience: This session assumes that participants have a working knowledge of human resource needs and procedures in a legal setting. No advance preparation is required.

LI14: Doubling Your Practice Through Productization
Mark Maraia
Monday, April 3 4:00 PM - 5:30 PM

This interactive session will make the business case for lawyers productizing their services, no matter the firm size. Using client case studies from small firms to larger ones, you'll learn how to rethink and present your services as products at multiple price points — making it easier for the buyer of the services to hire you. In the process, your client will enjoy greater perceived value in working with you.

Objectives:
• Explain ways to better understand the client's perception of value.
• Discuss why "thinking like a rainmaker" requires C-suite thinking skills.
• Illustrate why productization is more profitable than hourly billing.
• Discover why productization is better than commoditization.

OM15: Disaster Planning and Recovery: Lesson from the Trenches
Ernie Condra
Monday, April 3 4:00 PM - 5:30 PM

Attendees will hear from the executive director of a large law firm that suffered windstorm damage. The result was a destroyed a headquarters office. They will learn about how planning was or was not well conceived, and about the myriad of details required to remain functioning, recover in temporary spaces and rebuild an entire 50,000-square-foot office. This knowledge will position them dramatically better when considering similar potential catastrophes in their firms.

Objectives:
• Analyze your current state of planning for a disaster and how it may or may not be effective.
• Examine the nuances of how even good planning can be short circuited.
• Identify tips and tricks for remaining functional under disaster conditions.
• Outline how communications play a pivotal role in recovery.

FM21: Working against the Margin: Cost Recovery in the New Legal Marketplace

Robert Mattern

Tuesday, April 4  7:30 AM - 8:30 AM

Law firms now face new challenges: a growing global market, flat domestic demand, increasing client pushback, competition from non-legal sources and an increase in outsourcing. Firms now work against the margin. Their success is dependent upon their ability to strategically recover costs. In this session, we'll examine the results from the 2016 Mattern & Associates Cost Recovery Survey, including strategies from firms that are proactive about maintaining this expense recovery stream and adjusting their strategy to the current workplace — and those that are letting this revenue slip away. We'll discuss new, critical areas and trends in legal research, litigation support and e-discovery managed services from which attendees can leverage ready-to-implement benchmark takeaways.

Objectives:

• Develop an understanding of the new challenges facing law firms in 2016, and how strategic cost recovery plays a role in meeting these challenges.
• Describe the elements of effective cost recovery by comparing strategies from firms that are recovering costs effectively and firms that struggle to do so.
• Identify new critical areas and trends in cost recovery that firms can use to manage costs and drive profitability.

LI21: Information Governance: How to Implement Need-to-Know Access and Ethical Walls without Destroying Productivity

Ben Weinberger

Tuesday, April 4  7:30 AM - 8:30 AM

Lawyers have an ethical obligation to protect the client confidentiality. The Panama Papers served as a wake-up. Clients are now telling firms to limit access to their information to only those who are working on their matters. Given the risk of data breach and the damage to firm and client reputations as well as the threat of fines from regulatory agencies, firms can no longer accept the risk that comes with open-access security models. Firms must now compartmentalize data and limit access without creating new workflow problems or risk management policy violations. This session will include an overview of why clients are driving the need-to-know policies, how this shift is being handled (or mishandled) by various firms, and what is needed to make the transition seamless, effective and demonstrably secure.

Objectives:
• Describe ways to maintain ethical walls to protect client confidentiality.
• Analyze how and why clients and regulatory agencies are driving the shift from open access to limited information access (“need to know” security).
• Discuss how firms can address this change on an organizational level and across which specific systems, while maintaining optimal workflow and risk management.
• Breakdown both technological and operational solutions and how they can be deployed simultaneously to resolve issues.

Audience: Attendees should have a working knowledge of ethical practices in the legal industry. No advance preparation is required.

CM20: The Happy Hour Effect: 5 Key Commitments to Elevate Your Personal and Professional Success

Kristen Brown

Tuesday, April 4  7:30 AM - 8:45 AM
Stress negatively affects our lives professionally and personally, and the legal profession is no exception. It's estimated that 80 percent of people say their job is the most stressful aspect of their lives. Furthermore, 1 million people are calling in sick to work every day due to stress — to mention those who show up but are unproductive, unfocused or even actively sabotaging their teams. By understanding the dynamics of stress and how it impacts you and your team, you can better manage it so it doesn't stop you from being successful in your career and personal goals. This session will discuss the Happy Hour Effect framework and how it can help reprioritize the dynamics of your life with clarity, and offer fresh action for work/life happiness, health, career success and stronger relationships.

Objectives:

• Recognize why and how stress impacts your personal and professional success at work and home.
• Create a customized Life Map to help change your mindset around work/life balance.
• Discover your stress cues and stress cures so you can better prepare for and manage the elements of your life that cause anxiety, while boosting the areas that bring you energy and happiness.

Law firm management and risk managers have been focusing on the threats of outside hackers, malicious source code attacks and the everyday digital threats that could disrupt business. But there is one weak link that the also need to focus on — people. Whether disgruntled or dishonest, whether destroying records or stealing intellectual property, it is shockingly easy for insiders to wreak havoc on your most valuable digital assets. Unprotected data can leave your office on a thumb drive, a laptop or through a personal email account. Once outside, there are plenty of lively markets for it. From competitors looking for trade secrets, to criminals stealing customer data, to rogue states breaching national security and much more, there is no shortage of buyers for any information that can be monetized. Before you can begin to build your defense, you need to know what you must protect.

Objectives:
- Identify the risks within the law firm environment.
- Discuss practical tips on how to better secure and monitor sensitive data.
- Examine surveys and facts to support the trends.
- Analyze interactive hypotheticals.

Today's legal market demands a new approach to operational excellence. There is increasing pressure on the business and administrative professionals whose work is at the foundation of every law practice to deliver better quality service in less time and at less cost. Lean Six Sigma's framework for process improvement is based in fact, logic, and common sense and is a powerful methodology that will drive operational excellence through increased efficiency and productivity, leading to greater competitiveness and sustainable profitability. This interactive session is designed specifically for those responsible for championing innovation through process optimization or for sponsoring or leading process improvement teams. You'll learn about some of the fundamental tools and methodologies you can use immediately to identify, evaluate, and eliminate waste in every aspect of your firm's operations.

Objectives:
- Demonstrate how implementing Lean can increase operational excellence through improved productivity, profitability, and client service across all aspects of an organization.
- Breakdown how the DMAIC (Define, Measure, Analyze, Improve, and Control) approach can lead to successfully implementing improvements.
- Identify value and waste in the business and administrative processes that support the practice of law.

CM22: Strength-Based Leadership: The 10-80-10 Principle

Sunjay Nath

Tuesday, April 4  10:15 AM - 11:15 AM

The 10-80-10 Principle is a framework that allows you to increase your performance and results by focusing your energy and efforts on highest yielding activities. It helps individuals and teams operate at a dynamic level. Every person or group already exhibits behaviors that are top 10 (percent) — those behaviors that lead to high performance and achievement. What people lack is the knowledge and a framework to consistently operate at that dynamic, top 10 level. The 10-80-10 Principle program provides a methodology to reward and grow top 10 behaviors and neutralize bottom 10 actions. Attendees will identify their top and bottom 10 and, using the 10-80-10 Principle, they'll create greater performance levels in both their personal and professional lives.

Objectives:
• Discover how to save time by focusing on the right activities.
• Outline how to increase team cohesion by increasing output with fewer resources.
• Create a healthier organization culture by cultivating and training toward team members' strengths, which increases job satisfaction and reduces turnover.

Doug Striker
Tuesday, April 4  10:15 AM - 11:15 AM

In today's legal marketplace, clients have far more power than they used to have. The recession made clients much more savvy and diligent when it comes to hiring legal help, including the way they are willing to pay (fee agreements) and how much they are willing to pay. Simply put — today's clients are demanding proof that their legal teams are working efficiently to achieve their goals. This expectation is driving firms to focus more energy on staff training so that everyone is working at maximum efficiency. Yet, very few law firms have limitless resources to pour into training. Attendees will learn techniques to achieve Lean training — when you marry technology with a culture of accountability, you can conduct a highly effective training program for far less than you might imagine.

Managed Services around technology — especially in areas of litigation support/eDiscovery and document management — have garnered enormous buzz in the industry. Law firms are increasingly presented with options to off-load their internal offerings concerning software, infrastructure, and services. The 2015 Mattern & Associates Managed eDiscovery and Litigation Support Survey indicates 28 percent of firms have entered into some form of Managed Services arrangement concerning their litigation support offering, with 46 percent of respondents indicating their firm is considering doing so. Additionally, the use of cloud-based solutions continues to gain traction in the legal market in areas such as Document Management. In this session, we'll discuss the driving factors behind this uptick and delve into the benefits law firms are reaping from procuring software, infrastructure, and services via a Managed Service agreement.

Objectives:

LI25: Has Your Company Bridged the Gap Between Human Values and Ethics? Does It Matter?

Chuck Gallagher

Tuesday, April 4 2:45 PM - 3:45 PM

What causes otherwise intelligent people — people who know the difference between right and wrong — to make a choice that will negatively impact themselves and their organization? With a unique perspective gained from his own past experience, this session will shed new light on why we do what we do and how to influence behavior. Most ethics presentations and training programs focus on compliance and legal issues — as if ethical choices are either legal or not. The reality is, ethical choices have far more impact on a company long before the issue of "legal or illegal" comes into play. While your ethics code of conduct might meet all the standards required, the missing piece for most companies is the ability to help management and employees understand the human dynamic associated with conduct management.

• Review the phases of "The Unethical Continuum."
• Develop a road map to keep employees' behavior between the ethical lines.

Tuesday, April 4  2:45 PM - 4:15 PM

When we engage in conversations across cultures, there is always the risk that what we say might offend someone. Oftentimes we don't even know why what we said was offensive. But rather than risk offending, many people avoid cross cultural dialogue altogether or cling to politically correct terminology. The tightrope we walk and the mental labor that ensues is exhausting, and often leaves everyone involved feeling unheard or misunderstood. This session will cover what has commonly become known as microaggressions — what they are, why people often react the way they do, and strategies for engaging effectively across cultures when racial tension exists in our personal and professional relationships.

Objectives:
• Define what microaggressions are.
• Identify strategies for engaging in conversations when racial tension exists.
• Extend your cultural competence.

Audience: This session assumes that participants have a working knowledge of human resource needs and procedures in a legal setting. No advance preparation is required.

HR24: ADA and ADAAA Training for Human Resources

Renee Culotta

Tuesday, April 4  2:45 – 4:15 PM

It's important for law firm employers to develop policies and procedures that identify and effectively respond to disabled employees and requests for reasonable accommodation. And recent changes and court interpretations to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) — specifically the expansion of the definition of employees considered disabled under the ADA and increase in Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) charges alleging violations of the ADA — make it even more of a priority. Participants will be able to identify triggers to the ADA interactive process, develop a systematic process for responding to requests for accommodation, and learn the most common reasonable accommodations that must be provided to employees.

Objectives:
• Recognize the provisions of the ADA and ADA Amendments Act.
• Develop knowledge on the most recent EEOC and court interpretations of who is considered a disabled employee under the ADA.
• Identify when employees are requesting reasonable accommodation and triggering the interactive process.
• Outline how to assist employees and applicants requesting reasonable accommodation.
OM24: Practical Legal Project Management: Kick-starting an LPM Initiative

Tom Baldwin

Tuesday, April 4  2:45 PM - 4:15 PM

If you’re just getting started with legal project management (LPM), or you want to breathe life into an existing initiative, this hands-on workshop will get you headed in the right direction. This session is designed for senior law firm administrators who are responsible for implementing LPM or supporting lawyers in LPM initiatives, and anyone interested in optimizing an LPM initiative. Many firms have tried and failed to implement effective LPM systems. Others haven’t got enough buy-in to see any real benefit. The usual approach does not work. Lawyers balk at the complexity. Smaller firms lack sufficient resources. This session will introduce you to a simpler, more practical approach to LPM and a useful tool for identifying the practice areas that can benefit from it the most. You can implement effective LPM with fewer resources and greater buy-in as part of an integrated approach to performance excellence.

Objectives:
- Demonstrate why your firm should implement LPM.
- Analyze what benefits your firm and your clients will see.
- Identify your starting point using a data monitoring tool.
- Illustrate how LPM can form part of an integrated approach to performance excellence.

Audience: This session assumes that participants have a working knowledge of legal project management in the legal industry.

HR25: General Session - Gray Area Thinking: Understanding Diverse Humans and Welcoming Transgender Attorneys, Coworkers and Clients

Ellen Krug

Tuesday, April 4  4:30 PM - 5:30 PM

Our society is tackling many issues relative to diversity and how to be welcoming toward and inclusive of persons who are "different." This includes challenges relative to accepting transgender or gender nonconforming persons. With this presentation, Ellie Krug (a trial attorney who transitioned from male to female in 2009 at age 52) provides a toolkit, "Gray Area Thinking," as a way of understanding and welcoming humans of all persuasions. As a part of this training, she shares about what it means to be transgender and offers tips on how to welcome your firm's first (or second or third) transgender attorney, coworker and client. The presentation includes a discussion about inclusivity, "allyship" and the need for greater compassion for all humans.

Objectives:
• Identify how we collectively label and group others who are "different" and the resulting obstacles toward inclusivity.
• Describe ways of understanding and remembering our commonalities.
• Discuss what it means to be transgender and gender nonconforming and specific ways to make the workplace more inclusive toward those humans.
• Illustrate how we all ripple to each other in either positive or negative ways.

Are you winning the game of Two Truths and a Lie? You play every day and don't even know it. Detecting lies is crucial in business and life. Do you know if your clients really like your proposal? Do they like the job you did? Are they telling you the truth about their budget? Are they telling you all of their needs? Are the people you're interviewing inflating their resume? And, most importantly, did your kids eat those chocolate donuts that were on the counter or did the dog? This program uses videos from current events to demonstrate techniques. To apply the learning, we'll play Two Truths and a Lie.

Objectives:

While each state has its own ethical rules governing an attorney’s use of a client trust account, most states have adopted the ABA Model Rules for Client Trust Account Records. Rule 1.15 of the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct requires that lawyers who are entrusted with the property of law clients and third persons in the practice of law must hold that property with the care required of a professional fiduciary. In this session, we will discuss the practical implementation of Model Rule 1.15, common mistakes, and tried and tested solutions from a regulation counsel's perspective. If you manage your firm's trust account or supervise others who manage the firm's trust account, this session is for you.

HR30: Marijuana in the Workplace

Judge Mary A. Celeste

Wednesday, April 5 8:30 AM - 9:30 AM

As more marijuana laws take affect across the country, more workplaces are impacted. Legal management professionals — be it in the context of the office or courthouse — will be facing legal employment issues regarding marijuana use. This presentation will help administrators to develop workplace drug policies and testing. It will also discuss the prevalent and relevant marijuana laws across the country and review appellate cases that deal with recreational and medical marijuana use in the workplace. It will also address the application of the Americans with Disabilities Act and its relationship to medical marijuana use.

Objectives:
• Identify the recreational and medical marijuana laws.
• Discuss marijuana employment cases across the country.
• Explain drug workplace policies.
• Apply the American with Disabilities Act to medical marijuana use.
• Analyze the existing science and technology for drug testing. Audience: Basic Audience: Attendee at any level will benefit from this session. No advance participation is necessary.

LI31: How to Help Senior Partners and Administrators Transition Out of Practice and Prepare Their Successors
Ida Abbott
Wednesday, April 5  8:30 AM - 9:30 AM

Few law firms have succession planning processes. Even fewer help partners or senior administrators prepare for the transition from law practice to the next stage of their lives and careers. Vast numbers of Baby Boomers will soon have to make this transition, but do not know where or how to begin. Fearful of losing their professional identity and unsure of what awaits them if they leave the firm, many hold tightly to their clients and responsibilities and stay at work longer they want or should. This can frustrate younger professionals whose prospects for business growth, professional advancement and leadership are blocked. Firms can prevent this situation by helping senior lawyers and administrators prepare to enter their next stage with confidence and enthusiasm. This program will present an approach to help senior professionals make a smooth transition out of practice, while preparing their successors and promoting continuity and stability in the firm.

Objectives:
• Examine the need for a succession planning process that includes helping senior lawyers and administrators prepare to transition out of their current roles.
• Recognize and overcome the factors that may prevent senior professionals from planning for the next stages of their lives and careers.
• Design an approach to transition-assisting practices that will be suitable for the senior professionals in their firms.

CM31: David M. Brezina Memorial Session: Giving Voice to Values: The "How" of Values-Driven Leadership

Mary C. Gentile

Wednesday, April 5 9:45 AM - 11:15 AM

In this session, we'll discuss a ground-breaking new approach to preparing managers and leaders for values-driven action. Drawing on both the actual experience of organizational practitioners — as well as cutting edge research — Giving Voice to Values (GVV) fills a long-standing and critical gap in our understanding of how to enable ethical practice. Rather than a focus on ethical analysis, GVV focuses on ethical implementation and asks the question: "What if I were going to act on my values? What would I say and do? How could I be most effective?" GVV holds the promise to transform the foundational assumptions upon which the teaching of values-driven leadership is based, and importantly, to equip future organizational leaders to not only know what is right — but how to make it happen.

Objectives:
• Discuss the missing link in business ethics and compliance training and how to address it.
• Identify individual strengths and align them with personal and professional purpose in the pursuit of values-driven leadership.
• Discover how scripting, practice and the "GVV Thought Experiment" builds the ethics muscle.
• Examine how companies are using the GVV methodology to develop values-driven leadership.

HR31: Executive Presence: How to Achieve Greater Influence in Your Firm
Elizabeth Fried
Wednesday, April 5  1:15 PM - 2:30 PM

It's not that top leaders lack external technical/business skills — it's that they lack the internal confidence and accompanying skillset for the subtleties required to project the gravitas of an influential leader. As an administrative, operations or human resources professional, you are in a key position to help your leaders bridge this gap. This presentation defines and outlines components of executive presence. It provides practical activities and resources to help you personally become a better leader. It also will help you mentor the leadership team to effectively project influence and gain employee respect. When combined, these tools will enable you, the partners and emerging leaders to be more effective in engaging and enrolling employees to carry out the firm's vision, mission and business strategy.

Objectives:
• Identify ways to develop your leadership teams' awareness of the need for executive presence.
• Demonstrate how to mentor or coach your management team in acquiring the three key attributes of executive presence.
• Examine techniques that help you and your leaders manage stress to provide a consistent behavioral style that builds credibility and moves the organization forward.

CM32: The Story Teller’s Secret

Jason Ashlock

Wednesday, April 5  1:15 PM - 2:45 PM

Revealing we are all storytellers at heart, this session aims to help build the capacity to understand how stories work, how they’re built and why they stick. Transforming an organization’s communications practices — graduating them from clumsy to focused, from random to intentional, from scattered to purposeful — we’ll explore the power of narrative design. In this fast-paced, inventive keynote, you’ll be handed tools used by some of the greatest storytellers of our time, learning how to aggregate, curate and amplify your message. Putting those story-making tools to use, you’ll elevate standard keynotes into contagious messages, transform conference room presentations into memorable experiences, and convert the most mundane email chains and team meetings into behavior-changing, performance-driving events. And you’ll do it all on the back on a shared, fundamental human hunger for stories that move, motivate and matter.

Objectives:
• Outline the fundamentals of good storytelling and the structure that underpins narratives that stick.
• Discuss how to aggregate, curate and amplify a message
• Identify how to elevate standard keynotes into contagious messages.

LI33: The Tsunami Impact Is Now Here
William Cobb
Wednesday, April 5 3:00 PM - 4:00 PM

When the tsunami comes ashore as predicted last year, there will be a multitude of issues that will be critical for administrators. As IBM’s Watson becomes more and more integrated into the everyday operations of the legal profession, three very big issues are emerging: 1) disintermediation moving lawyers out of equity positions to nonequity; 2) deleveraging the firm as associates and paralegals become less important to the delivery of services; and 3) the purge of partners based upon metrics that may destroy the law firm. All of these problems will take five to seven years to solve. The solutions will

HR33: A Profession on Notice: The Ethical and Liability Case for Why Law Firms Must Get Serious About Substance Abuse

Link Christian

Wednesday, April 5  3:00 PM - 4:15 PM

Recently, the Journal of Addiction Medicine published a groundbreaking study by Hazelden Betty Ford and the American Bar Association Commission on Lawyer Assistance Programs titled, "The Prevalence of Substance Use and Other Mental Health Concerns among American Attorneys." Although it had been commonly presumed that the legal profession had a heightened rate of these problems, nobody expected the numbers — reported by only active, practicing attorneys — to rise to the level that they did. The study clearly revealed a full-blown crisis that cannot be ignored. This program will outline the enhanced ethical and legal problems which loom, but, more importantly, suggest 10 specific strategies which firms and administrators can employ immediately to address this issue. These strategies should be of increased relevance for any legal managers, both in respect to their own personal issues as well as their role in formulating and executing pro-active planning to prevent and reduce impairment within the firm.

Objectives:
• Review the findings of the study, emphasizing the number of actively impaired attorneys.
• Explain the increased ethical problems the firm is likely to encounter if it does not address the issues raised in the study.
• Describe the heightened legal liability the firm will face if a protocol is not established for identifying, confronting and assisting with substance abuse problems.
• Discuss 10 specific strategies to initiate now to avoid ethical and legal consequences and to promote a culture of prevention, wellness and support.
